

Tutu sweet: young ballet dancers make their pointe

The Australian Ballet School will resound to the sound of 130 young dancers en pointe, aged from eight to 13, who have travelled from Japan, Malaysia, New Zealand and from all corners of Australia, to take part in a four-day intensive training program, some hoping to catch the eye of the school's teachers. PICTURE: REBECCA HALLAS